SOME DOINGS IN ZION

"Smokers" Rush From Factory and Attack Religious Zealots

CALL ON SHERIFF FOR HELP

Gangs Parade Street at Night While Others Gather in Auditorium to Lay Plans for Overcoming Enemy

A week of trouble between the employees of Cook Electrical company and the followers of Wilbur Glenn Voliva in Zion City culminated Monday night in a riot, in which a score of the religious zealots were wounded and two arrested. Fearing that Marshal John Hoover and his forty deputies would be unable to prevent further bloodshed, Acting Mayor Miller last night appealed to Sheriff Elmer Green of Waukegan for assistance. Green, accompanied by four deputies hurried to the scene and took charge of the situation.

Meanwhile, Voliva, successor to John Alexander Dowse, ordered the big alarm bell rung for an hour and 1,000 of his followers gathered in the auditorium Monday night to discuss plans for riding Zion forever of the "tobacco smoking cure." The Cook employees paraded the streets Monday night in gangs and Marshal Hoover sat in the police station oiling repeating rifles.

Two of the Zionists—one of them, Elder Royal, Voliva's lieutenant—were rendered unconscious, and one was so badly hurt that he may die.

The trouble started at 5 o'clock when the employees exasperated by the singing and praying of the Dowites outside, rushed out of the plant armed with their tools and charged the meeting across the street. The wires of the fence erected by Voliva were snapped and the platform on which the elders stood was overturned and wrecked. The Zionists stood their ground and Marshal Hoover and his deputies waded into the crowd clubbing right and left with their "billys."

Elder Royal was just leading his followers in singing "Conquering Now and Still to Conquer." The workers charged the platform and struck him a blow over the head, rendering him unconscious. The women screamed and fought back. Elder Robinson was jerked from the platform and trampled under foot.

John Bryson 70 years old, a Volivaite, was knocked unconscious by a blow from a club. Joseph Bishop, another Zionist, sustained a fractured skull and his condition Monday night was said to be serious.

Isaac Mill and John Thorpe two of the Zion "crusaders" resisted the efforts of the deputies to disperse the gathering and were placed under arrest.

By this time the "crusaders" retreated still clutching their bibles and uttering threats against the "tobacco smoking employees." Voliva then ordered the big bell to be rung summoning his followers to the auditorium. The workers most of whom have moved to Zion City temporarily gathered in gangs and were prepared for a second encounter.

With the arrival of Sheriff Green no further trouble occurred but another clash in the "tobacco war" is expected.

Voliva at the meeting urged his followers to "clean out the town" and instructed his leaders to protect the women and children at all hazards. A score of "crusaders" were nursing broken heads.

The fight came as a climax to a week of trouble between the Zionists and the employees of the Cook company, who persisted in smoking in the city contrary to the laws of the Church of Zion. The Independent party headed by Alderman Miller and Marshall Hoover, aided with the employees. Several fights occurred and Voliva erected the platform across the street from the Cook plant from which his leaders exhorted and sang to the employees as they came and went to work.

More special deputies were sworn in by Sheriff Green and the Independents will be ready for any retaliation on the part of Voliva.

NEW DEVICE IS PATENTED

Winthrop Harbor Man Revises Concrete Construction Methods

Although the device has been in use for some little time, Robert Alken of Winthrop harbor has just received word from Washington that he has been granted a patent on his method and apparatus for constructing concrete buildings. Mr. Alken of the Alken Engineering company, already has used his method and device for constructing several concrete buildings since he filed an application for a patent. One of these buildings is the Methodist church in Zion City.

The device which Mr. Alken patented makes the erecting of concrete buildings much easier. His idea is to have each of the four walls of a building constructed flat upon the ground and then to raise them into a vertical position upon the foundations. When the Methodist church in Zion City was erected in this manner it called forth considerable comment as the idea was completely new. It is claimed that the device can be erected much quicker and better in this manner than by the old fashioned way of putting up concrete buildings.

The device is arranged in such a way that the concrete wall may be raised into place very easily after it has been formed. After the four walls have been put in position they are cemented together, formerly and roof put on in the usual manner. In addition to the church in Zion City it is said that several of these concrete buildings have been built in various cities along the north shore.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS WILL NOT RAISE PRESENT RATES

An article given general publicity in various newspapers last week to the effect that the Royal Neighbors order was to boost its rates in the near future we are informed is without foundation. Dr. Burkhart, supreme recorder of the order, was reported to have made a statement to that effect, but she comes out with a firm denial that any such statement was made by her or that an increase in rates is contemplated. The origin of the misstatement is unknown, though many Royal Neighbors are of the opinion that it was stated by some rival lodge with a view to injuring the Royal Neighbor order. The present financial condition of the Royal Neighbors is such as to insure its stability without an increase in rates and none will be made without every member having a vote on the question.

VILLAGE HALL IS ASSURED

Proposition is Carried By A Majority of Thirty One Votes

IS A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT

Will Be a Two Story Building of Cement Blocks and Brick With Ample Room for All Requirements

The question of bonding the village of Antioch in the sum of $5,000 for the purpose of the erection of a new town hall was settled at the polls Tuesday. The total number of votes cast was 138. Of this number one was defective, 84 were in favor of the proposition while 53 were against it, thus the measure carried by 31 votes.

The lot whereon the new hall is to be built was purchased by the village board from Dell Sabin last fall, and is located on Main street the second lot south of the News office.

The plans and specifications are now on file with the village clerk and when completed the structure will be a creditable addition to our village and will give to all the advantage of having the fire apparatus centrally located and more convenient of access in case of fire than it has heretofore been.

The building is to be of concrete blocks and brick construction, 25x60 two stories high, and a basement. The upper story will be done off for living rooms in which the village marshal is supposed to be located. The first floor will provide convenient quarters for the village trustees to hold meetings and transact the business of the village and sufficient room for a convenient arrangement of the fire apparatus. The basement will be fitted up for the village jail.

This week's issue of the News contains an advertisement for bids for the building of the hall and it is the intention of the board, as soon as the contract is awarded, to have the work pushed to a hasty completion.

ANDERSON WILL AS INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE

The dry faction of the three counties representing this legislative district have decided to run Joseph Anderson of Lake Forest as their candidate in the election in November and already men are out with petitions, working to get them signed and they will run Anderson as an independent candidate.

The drys are claiming that they will have an easy victory as Anderson is so well known in this district. Graham is the man they will try to beat. Although Meyer of Barrington was nominated on the Prohibition ticket at the recent primaries, the dry faction do not consider him strong enough to be elected. Mr. Anderson will run on the Independent ticket.

The issue of the Dry-Republicans that are putting Anderson up on the Independent ticket is that next session the redistricting of the legislative, senatorial and judicial district will take place and also that two United States senators are to be elected. They claim that Lake County should have Republican representation in the lower house.

In getting voters to sign the petition of Mr. Anderson for the Independent ticket it will be necessary to get men who did not vote at the last primary election and also men who did not sign the petition of any other candidate. Although the vote at the last primary was large no trouble is expected in securing the names.

Penalty of Human Folly.
The efforts now to save the chestnut trees emphasize nature's revenge for the needless slaughter of the birds. Bird conservation is one of the important factors in forestry, but it human carelessness or wantonness destroys the natural means of tree defenses, it follows that men are left to their own inadequate devices to repair the blunder, in this case worse than a crime.—Baltimore American.

DEPOT QUESTION AGAIN

Letter From General Superintendent Winters States That Work Will Soon Start

MATERIAL COMING AT ONCE

Work Will Be Rushed and Building Will Be Completed in Time To Accommodate Summer Trade

As the spring months have advanced and no definite move in the direction of erecting Antioch's long promised new depot could be seen, those of a skeptical turn of mind are beginning to seriously doubt that it would ever materialize. And in order that all doubts may be set aside we herewith publish in full a letter received by Village President Webb from Gen. Superintendent C. A. Winters explaining their delay and making promise of a commencement of the work in the near future.

Fond du Lac, Wis., April 27, 1912.
Mr. Chase Webb,
Antioch, Ill.

Dear Sir:

Mr. Urbahn stated that there is to be a meeting of your council on Monday night and the question of our building our station building is likely to be brought up. I wish to assure you that all of the arrangements have been completed for the building of the new station. We have been disappointed in getting the balance of the filing from the Waukegan Quarry people on account of an accident occurring to their steam shovel. They assure us that they will be able to furnish the filing the coming week. This will not interfere with our assembling the material for the station. This material should begin to arrive during the coming week. It is not our intention to stall this matter off a minute. We are more than anxious to get the building completed before the summer tourist travel begins.

I wish to thank you for your co-operation in leveling out the highway adjacent to the building site. We hope to make a very attractive building and appropriate grounds. It is my intention to move present milk platform to a point north of the station so that there will be no occasion for teams to cross the track. Later on I hope to be able to locate the stock yards on a spur off of the long passing track to the south.

With personal regards, I am,
Yours truly,

C. A. Winters, Superintendent.
Some little time ago the Soo Line officials asked for bids for the erection of the building, but upon receiving them, saw fit to reject all, and will therefore keep the matter of construction in their own hands.

LAKE COUNTY MAN RETAINS SHOOTING HONORS

J. R. Graham, brother of Thomas Graham, the democratic representative for the legislature from this district has again won laurels with his rifle. This time it was in Chicago at the second day's shoot of the tournament of the Chicago Gun club when he broke 129 targets, securing the high average of the meet.

Mr. Graham is without doubt one of the best shots in the nation and he has captured many prizes and will without doubt take many more. For the two men championship of the world Graham was also successful with his teammate, R. W. Cieny and they broke 161 out of a possible 200. This is a remarkably good record and the men are to be again congratulated on their success.

Cold Storage Cat Meets.
A man down in Massachusetts found a blacksnake frozen in the snow. He took the snake up carefully so that it would not break—it was as stiff as the rod of Moses in the original form—and took it home and put it by the fire. And it thawed out. It wriggled around in the heat and would have been all right again if it hadn't been for the family cat. The cat ate it.

FIRE FIEND IN HIGHWOOD

Residents are Afraid to go to Bed at Night, Fearing Incendiary

Rather than place their loved ones at the mercy of the fire fiend who has terrorized the residents of the village for two weeks, Highwood men stay up nights and protect their property with fire arms.

The residents of the prosperous little village to the south of Waukegan, living in constant fear of the alleged fire fiend, are afraid to retire at night without "outside" police protection.

Three times, in two weeks, the Park hotel has been threatened with destruction by fire.

Sunday night last the volunteer fire department, of which Al Huestis is chief, was summoned to the Park hotel twice to extinguish fire. The building it is feared, was "fired" the work of an incendiary. The loss by fire amounted to $500. The building is owned by Samuel Schwartz of Waukegan and is valued at upwards of $10,000. It has been rented to a number of laboring men.

A store building on Highwood avenue the property of Wm. Welch, brother of Edward Welch of Waukegan was gutted by fire one night last week. The loss amounted to approximately $250.

The Goldstein store building on Highwood avenue was threatened with destruction by fire last Wednesday night. The fire was put out after valiant work by the department with a loss of over $200 to the owner.

A switchman's shanty, the property of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, was razed to the ground by fire. The only occupant of the shanty narrowly escaped being cremated alive. The roof of the shanty burned off before he escaped from the frame structure.

Extra police protection has been given the residents of the village.

Fire Marshal Huestis has been unsuccessful in his attempts to learn the origin of any one fire.

Although only a rumor, Monday night it was reported that empty oil cans had been found in a woods southeast of the village. Fire Marshal Huestis and his men are not leaving one stone unturned in their search for the alleged fire fiend.

PLEDGE INSURGENTS AID

Lake County Woodmen Meet at Grayslake for Session Tuesday

Woodmen from various parts of Lake county and some from Wisconsin towns gathered in Grayslake Woodman hall Tuesday where they heard C. T. Heydecker of Waukegan explain the insurgent Woodmen rate situation, heard him urge them to "stick to the order" and not quit until absolutely driven out by the head officers.

The outcome of the meeting was that the delegates agreed to urge their lodges to take 10 cents per member out of the respective general funds of Lake county camps, to go to the fund which the insurgent leaders will need in fighting this battle to save the order and beat the head officers.

The state senate is expected to pass the bill regulating fraternal societies at its next session, but the fight is just then started, according to Mr. Heydecker. He says the ants will have to keep plugging away incessantly until the next head camp is elected and then the insurgents will have to join in the movement to save themselves. The delegates showed much enthusiasm over Mr. Heydecker's statements and from reports all Lake county camps feel that the new rate plan is not satisfactory.

A quiet feeling prevails that as time passes, C. T. Heydecker once a director in the head camp of Woodmen, should be shoved ahead by the Lake County Woodcraft as a logical candidate for the position again, for if anybody knows anything about Woodcraft he does and with a few others at one time saved the order from ruin. He seems a logical man for the place and would rally much support to his side because of his knowledge of Woodmen affairs.

DEFEATED CLERK FILES CONTEST OF ELECTION

Theodore Swan of Rockefeller filed an election contest with County Judge Perry L. Persons Monday. The subpoena issued at the direction of Judge Persons were made returnable on Saturday, May 11.

Swan claims that he was illegally defeated because a majority of the men who voted for his opponent did not write his name on the ballot, but placed printed labels thereon. A man by the name of Klegge was victor for the office of town clerk. Swan was defeated by four votes.

N. CARTER IS AGAIN ARRESTED

Makes Escape From County Poor Farm Monday and Again Commits Theft

NOW CONSIDERED INSANE

Has Mania for Stealing Horses and Plies His Trade This Time in the Vicinity of Gurnee

After a daring escape from the county poor farm at Libertyville on Monday, Nick Carter, 40 years old, who about two months ago was arrested near Lake Villa in Lake county for the theft of a horse, and whose sentence was made as tight as possible because of his illness, was arrested at Racine Tuesday for the alleged theft of four horses at Gurnee some time Monday night. Sheriff Green has gone to Racine and will bring Carter back with him. The theft was not discovered until about five o'clock Tuesday morning. It took but a short time to arouse the whole community and get several armed men out in autos searching for the theft.

Carter, who claims no relationship to the dime novel hero of the same name after his escape from the poor farm on Monday, made his way across country to Gurnee. Early in the evening he stopped at the L. W. Wakefield farm just west of Gurnee. He asked for work but because he did not appear strong enough to do farm work Mr. Wakefield did not hire him. Carter then asked for the privilege of spending the night in the barn. This was granted. When Mr. Wakefield went to the barn early Tuesday morning he discovered that three of his horses had been stolen. A few moments later his neighbor, Thomas McCullough, called him up on the telephone and reported that a horse had been stolen from him.

Sheriff Green of Waukegan was notified and he hurried to the scene with armed deputies. He also called up the police in all cities within a radius of fifty miles and asked them to be on the lookout for the thief and the horses.

Several of Mr. Wakefield's neighbors who owned automobiles volunteered to take part in the chase and an organized hunt soon was in progress, some of the machines going in each direction.

Near the Spaulding Corners, just west of Waukegan, two of the horses were found tied to a fence, the supposition being that they did not lead easily and the horse thief decided not to take any chances. A little later a man who had been driving toward Gurnee Monday night reported that he had passed two men and a team, leading two other horses. This makes it seem possible that Carter had an accomplice.

As soon as the call for assistance was received in Racine the police there got busy and soon had Carter in the toils. This information was telephoned to the authorities. This ended the chase and the different searching parties were recalled. The shortness of time required to capture the thief is regarded as remarkable.

Sheriff Green declared that in his opinion that Carter is insane and thinks that he should be committed to an asylum for the criminal insane. He says that because of his mental condition it would hardly be right to prosecute him and that he is too dangerous a man to have at large. When he was arrested before he was an object of pity because of his physical and mental condition. It was this that led to his being sent to the poor farm.

Oldest Almanac.
The oldest almanac in existence is the "Almanach National," which has been issued by the French government since 1686. Its name has been changed a good many times during its career of 225 years. Originally the "Almanach Royal," it became "National" in 1793, "Imperial" in 1806, and reverted to its original name nine years later. Since then the title has been altered four times. Like most publications of this sort, the "Almanach National" has grown bulky with advancing years. The first issue contained 48 pages, as compared with 1,580 pages in the current issue.

SYNOPSIS.

Elam Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 25th birthday with a crowd of miners at the Circle City Tivoli. The dance leads to heavy gambling, in which over $100,000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins the mail contract. He starts on his mail trip with dogs and sleds, telling his friends that he will be sledging, telling his friends that he will be sledging, telling his friends that he will be sledging. In the big Yukon gold strike at the start, Burning Daylight makes a sensational rapid run across country with the mail, appears at the Tivoli and is now ready to join his friends in a dash to the new gold fields. Deciding that gold will be found in the up-river district, Harnish buys two tons of flour, which he declares will be worth its weight in gold, but when he arrives with his flour he finds the big flat desolate. A comrade discovers gold and Daylight reaps a rich harvest.

Back in Dawson, though he remained true to his word and never touched hand to pick and shovel, he worked as hard as ever in his life. He had a thousand irons in the fire, and they kept him busy. Heavy as were his expenses, he won more heavily. He took lays, bought half shares, shared with the men he grub-staked, and made personal locations. Day and night his dogs were ready, and he owned the fastest teams; so that when a stamped to a new discovery was on, it was Burning Daylight to the fore through the longest, coldest nights till he blazed his stakes next to Discovery. In one way or another, (to say nothing of the many worthless creeks) he came into possession of properties on the good creeks, such as Sulphur, Domination, Excelsior, Silver, Cristo, Alhambra, and Doolittle. The thousands he poured out flowed back in tens of thousands.

Dawson grew rapidly that winter of 1898. Money poured in on Daylight from the sale of town lots. He promptly invested it where it would gather more. In fact, he played the dangerous game of pyramiding, and no more perilous pyramiding than is a placer camp could be imagined. But he played with his eyes wide open.

Corner lots in desirable locations sold that winter for from ten to thirty thousand dollars. Daylight sent word out over the trails and passes for the newcomers to bring down log-rats, and, as a result, the summer of 1897 saw his saw mills working day and night, on three shifts, and still he had logs left over with which to build cabins. These cabins, hand included, sold at from one to several thousand dollars. Two-story log buildings, in the business part of town, brought him from forty to fifty thousand dollars apiece. These fresh accretions of capital were immediately invested in other ventures. He turned gold over and over, until everything that he touched seemed to turn to gold.

With the summer rush from the Outside came special correspondents for the big newspapers and magazines, and one and all, using unlimited space, they wrote Daylight up; so that, so far as the world was concerned, Daylight loomed the largest figure in Alaska. Of course, after several months, the world became interested in the Spanish War, and forgot all about him; but in the Klondike itself Daylight still remained the most prominent figure.

CHAPTER VI.

It was held by the thousands of hero-worshipping cheechakos that Daylight was a man absolutely without fear. But Bettles and Dan MacDonald and other sourdoughs shook their heads and laughed as they mentioned women. And they were right. He had always been afraid of them from the time, himself a lad of seventeen, when Queen Anne, of Juneau, made open and ridiculous love to him. For that matter, he never had known women. Born in a mining-camp where there were rare and mysterious, having no elators, his mother dying while he was an infant, he had never been in contact with them.

But it was left to the Virgin to give him his final fright. She was found one morning dead in her cabin. A shot through the head had done it, and she had left no message, no explanation. Then came the talk. Some wit, volcing public opinion, called it a case of too much Daylight. She had killed herself because of him. Every body knew this, and said so. The correspondents wrote it up, and once more Burning Daylight, King of the Klondike, was sensationally featured in the Sunday supplements of the United States. The Virgin had straightened up, so the feature-gorillas ran, and correctly so. Never had she entered a Dawson City dance-hall. When she first arrived from Circle City, she had earned her living by washing clothes. Next, she had bought a sewing-machine and made men's drill parkies, fur caps, and moosehide mittens. Then she had gone as a clerk into the First Yukon Bank. All this, and more, was known and told, though one and all were agreed that, though light, while the cause, had been the innocent cause of her untimely end. And the worst of it was that Daylight knew it was true. Always would he remember that last night he had seen her. He had thought nothing of it at the time; but, looking back, he was haunted by every little thing that had happened. In the light of the tragic event, he could understand everything—her quietness, that calm certitude as if all vexing questions of living had been smoothed out and were gone, and that certain ethereal sweetness about all that she had said and done that had been almost maternal. He remembered the way she had looked at him, how she had laughed when he narrated Mickey Dolan's mistake in staking the fraction on Skookum Gulch. Her laughter had been lightly joyous, while at the same time it had lacked its old-time robustness. Not that she had been grave or subdued. On the contrary, she had been so patently content, so filled with peace. She had fooled him, fool that he was. He had even thought that night that her feeling for him had passed, and he had taken delight in the thought, and caught visions of the satisfying future friendship that would be theirs with this perturbing love out of the way.

And then, when he stood at the door, cap in hand, and said good night. It had struck him at the time as a funny and embarrassing thing, her bending over his hand and kissing it. He had felt like a fool, but he shivered mantle of snow could not hide. Beneath him, in every direction, were the cabins of men. But not many men were visible. A blanket of smoke filled the valleys and turned the gray day to melancholy twilight. Smoke arose from a thousand holes in the snow, where, deep down on bed-rock, in the frozen muck and gravel, men crouched and scratched and dug, and ever built more fires to break the grip of the frost.

Organization was what was needed, he decided; and his quick imagination sketched Eldorado Creek, from mouth to source, and from mountain top to mountain top, in the hands of one capable management. Even steam-thawing, as yet untried, but bound to come, he saw would be a makeshift. What should be done was to hydraulic the valley sides and benches, and then, on the creek bottom, to use gold-dredges. There was the very chance for another big killing. He had wondered just what was precisely the reason for the Guggenhammers and the big English concerns sending in their high-salaried experts. That was their scheme. That was why they had approached him for the sale of worked-out claims and tailings. They were content to let the small mine-owners gather up what they could, for there would be millions in the lavings.

And, gazing down on the smoky inferno of crude effort, Daylight outlined the new game he would play, a game in which the Guggenhammers and the rest would have to reckon with him. But along with the delight in the new conception came a weariness. He was tired of the long Arctic years, and he was curious about the Outside—the od that it was too big for him to handle, and when they gave him an ultimatum to that effect he accepted and bought them out. The plan was his own, but he sent down to the States for competent engineers to carry it out. In the Rinkability watershed, eighty miles away, he built his reservoir, and for eighty miles the huge wooden conduit carried the water, across country to Ophir. Estimated at three millions, the reservoir and conduit cost near four. Nor did he stop with this. Electric power plants were installed, and his workings were lighted as well as run by electricity. Other sourdoughs, who had struck it rich in excess of all their dreams, shook their heads gloomily, warned him that he would go broke, and declined to invest in so extravagant a venture. But Daylight smiled, and sold out the remainder of his town-site holdings. He sold at the right time, at the height of the placer boom. When he prophesied to his old cronies, in the Moosehorn Saloon, that within five years town lots in Dawson could not be given away, while the cabins would be chopped up for firewood, he was laughed at roundly, and assured that the mother-lode would be found ere that time. But he went ahead, when his need for lumber was finished, selling out his sawmills as well. Likewise, he began to get rid of his scattered holdings on the various creeks, and without thanks to any one he finished his conduit, built his dredges, imported his machinery, and made the gold of Ophir immediately accessible. And he, who five years before had crossed over the divide from Indian River and threaded the silent wilderness, his dogs packing Indian fashion, himself living Indian fashion on straight moose meat, now heard the hoarse whistles calling his hundreds of laborers to work, and watched them loam under the white glare of the arc-lamps.

But having done the thing, he was ready to depart. And when he let the word go out, the Guggenhammers vied with the English concerns and with a few French companies in bidding for Ophir and all its plant. The Guggenhammers bid highest, and the price they paid netted Daylight a clean million. It was current rumor that he was worth anywhere from twenty to thirty millions. But he alone knew just how he stood, and that, with his last claim sold and the table swept clean of his winnings, he had ridden his hunch to the tune of just a trifle over eleven millions.

His departure was a thing that passed into the history of the Yukon along with his other deeds. All the Yukon was his guest, Dawson the seat of the festivity. On that one last night no man's dust save his own was good. Drinks were not to be purchased. Every saloon ran open, with extra relays of exhausted bartenders, and the drinks were given away. A man who refused this hospitality, and persisted in paying, found a dozen fights on his hands. The voracious cheechakos rose up to defend the name of Daylight from such insult. And through it all, on moonlit feet, moved Daylight, hell-rearing, Burning Daylight, overspilling with good nature and camaraderie, howling his new howl and clanking the night as his, bending men's arms down on the bars, performing feats of strength, his bronzed face flushed with drink, his black eyes flashing, clad in overalls and blanket coat, his ear-flaps dangling and his gauntleted mittens swinging from the cord across the shoulders. But this time it was neither an ante nor a stake that he threw away, but a mere marker in the game that he who held so many markers would not miss.

AS IT SOMETIMES HAPPENS.

The man at the corner of the down town alley was selling some kind of cement.

It was worth 25 cents a bottle, as he explained to his hearers, but in order to introduce it he was making a special price of one dime, good for this particular occasion only, and he guaranteed satisfaction or money refunded.

"Will it mend broken china?" inquired a lean, undersized man in the crowd.

"It will mend anything but a broken promise or a ruined character. Say, my friend, here's a couple of sticks of wood, fastened together at the ends. If you break them apart I'll make you a present of a bottle."

Carelessly the undersized man took the joined sticks in his hands.

Then he gave them a sudden, violent wrench.

But they didn't break apart.

It is astounding to have to spell a story in this manner, but sometimes, in the interests of historical accuracy, it has to be done.

Old Necessity.

"Yes, sir, in a year from now this Amalgamated Balloon stock will be worth $10,000 and I'll sell it to you for 50 cents."

"If it'll be worth $10,000 in a year from now, why don't you keep it your self?"

"Well, you see, I need a shave and a hair cut, and I'd be a holy show if I waited that long."—Judge.

GIFTS FROM KINGS

Many Presents Are Offered to American Officials.

CONGRESS' CONSENT NEEDED

Without That, Employees of Uncle Sam May Not Accept the Proffered Honors—Case Full of Decorations Waiting.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington.—When a large reception is given at the White House the guest sees occasionally some other guest in civil life wearing over the bosom of his dress shirt some medalion or cross or bauble of some kind suspended from his neck by a bright ribbon. There are a good many men in the United States who have been "decorated" by foreign monarchs. If the person chosen for the honor is not working in any capacity for the United States government he can take the decorative present if he chooses to, but if he is one of Uncle Sam's servants he must get permission of congress before he can accept from the hands of any foreign king or government a present of any kind.

There is in the state department a case full of presents of various kinds intended for American citizens in the government employ. They are waiting there until their hopeful recipients get permission from congress to wear them or carry them, whichever it may be, for sometimes the present is a medal which must be worn, or a pocket knife or something else which must be carried.

Recently congress allowed several army and navy officers and a few civilian employees of the government to accept gifts from foreign potentates. It will be some time before congress will act again in this matter and meantime the presents will pile up, for sometimes they are sent direct to the state department and if not, they are turned over to the department by the men who hope some day to get permission to claim possession.

Many Gifts Are Offered.

Since the United States became a world power every nation on the face of the globe has sought to give its officials presents of one kind or another. The emperor of Ethiopia was one of the monarchs to come bearing gifts. It was his desire once on a time to present a ribbon, a pin and a star, the symbol of an order which has existed since the day of Solomon and Sheba, to R. P. Skinner, an American citizen, one time consul at Marseilles.

King Edward VII. of England tried successively to get permission from congress to give a silver ink stand to George H. Bridgman, American consul at Kingston, Jamaica, and a silver writing set to Arthur M. Benupro, who was then our minister to the Argentine Republic. Edward also at one time had in stock a good many sovereign coronation medals, a sword or two and several silver watches which he wanted to hand over with an expression of his kindly regard to army and navy officers and to lighthouse keepers who owed allegiance to the republic. Edward finally had his way.

It took the shah of Persia two years to get permission to give a diamond snuff box to Richmond Pearson, who was our minister at one time to Tehran. It took the khedive of Egypt two years also to secure permission to bestow on Ethelbert Watts the decoration of the Order of the Osmanlek.

The government of France, although that country is a republic, was obliged to get the permission of the American congress before it could give decorations of the Legion of Honor to Lieut. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee and about thirty other American army officers, most of whom witnessed the French army maneuvers.

When last there was an emperor of China he picked out 20 Americans whom he wished to honor with the decoration of the Double Dragon. These Chinese baubles are now being worn by their recipients.

Hard Lot of a Sailor.

President Taft has assigned to him for occasional service at the White House several young army and naval officers, whose duty it is to act as personal aids. It must not be understood that these soldiers and sailors are sent to Washington for the express purpose of attending on the president at official and social functions. They are sent here to do the ordinary military and naval work in the departments, and to attend the president only as "aide issues." Once in a while some of these younger officers, in case the president's regularly appointed "constant personal aid" is absent, accompany him on his rides.

Lieut. Sommes Road four years ago was sent to the capital for navy duty and to act as one of the White House aids. He had been here about a year when he started on a horse-back ride with the president through Rock Creek park. Sailors are not the fine horsemen ordinarily that army officers are, and Lieutenant Road was thrown when his horse shied at an automobile, and his back was injured.

For the last three years young Road has been an inmate of the naval hospital here or of the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. He has been confined to his bed all the time, and word has just come from the surgeons that this young sailor never will walk again, but will be confined to his bed for the rest of his life. The officer is bearing up manfully under the sentence of the surgeons. He is said to be one of the most cheerful patients in the United States naval hospital.

Lieutenant Road's mother has been in Washington for some time. The other day she went to the hospital and waited for three hours while the final examination of the physical condition of her son was being made by noted United States surgeons. At the end of the three hours the physician came out of the consultation room and as gently as they could told the mother her son never would walk again.

Louise Home Fifty Years Old.

The Louise Home for Aged Women, a noted Washington institution, is now just a half century old. The building is one of the landmarks of the capital, standing at the intersection of Massachusetts avenue and Fifteenth street, with Thomas circle one block away to the east and Scott circle one block away to the west. Massachusetts avenue is perhaps the finest residence thoroughfare in the city of Washington. The aged women who occupy the Louise Home are treated as guests and not as "lunatics." They have their calling days, just as do other Massachusetts avenue residents, and in every way are made to feel that each individual is "the mistress of the manse."

The Louise home was founded by William W. Corcoran fifty years ago. The primary object of the home was to provide for aged gentlemen who had lost their means of support by reason of the war between the states. The south suffered particularly in this way, and virtually every inmate of the Louise home is a southern woman. Not long ago a daughter of a president of the United States died at the home. Her father was John Tyler. She had been a guest at the home for many years. Occasionally she would leave it to attend some social affair at the White House, in which she once lived.

May Be Enlarged Soon.

There is now room in the Louise home for forty women, but it is possible that in a short time the building will be enlarged, although it has been proposed that another structure be erected in another part of the city. It is infrequently that a vacancy occurs at the home, except, of course, through the coming of death. No woman under fifty years of age is admitted and none who has advanced beyond the age of seventy years. There is a long list of applications for entrance to the home. In fact the list is longer now than it has been at any time since the home was founded. Mr. Corcoran endowed it adequately. It is considered an ideal form of social service and the lines of management laid down by Mr. Corcoran have been carried out faithfully.

General Greely Is Popular.

Maj. Gen. Adolphus W. Greely, who for some years was the chief of the signal corps of the United States army, lives in the city of Washington with his family. When General Greely was made a major general he relieved a Kansas soldier, Frederick Funston, as commanding general of the Pacific division of the United States army. It was then that General Greely ordered upon the active command of troops of the line for the first time in twenty years, for the highest rank of line command which he ever before held was that of a captain of cavalry.

At the West Point dinner the other night General Greely, who was a graduate, was one of the guests of honor. There was a little feeling existing in the army when Greely was given a high rank, which some of the officers felt ought to have been given to another who had been with troops actively in the field for the major part of his service, but this feeling, long ago subsided and the general is an exceedingly popular officer with all branches of the service.

It is known that General Greely's transfer and promotion were given him as a reward for the hardships which he underwent in the early '80s while conducting a polar expedition. General Greely was in Washington during most of his service as a signal officer, and for much of the time his near neighbor was Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, who went north and rescued Greely, and his party when they were on the point of perishing.

Trying Position for a Soldier.

General Greely was once placed in one of the most trying positions which ever fell to the lot of a soldier, and there are few men who would have cared to undertake the responsibility, which at that time Greely, as a captain, shouldered. With his men he was at the point of dying from starvation in the arctic regions. There was left barely enough food to stave off death for a week. The rations per man were cut down to little more than a mouthful given out once every twenty-four hours.

A soldier of the command was caught stealing food. In the hope of saving his own life, he was willing that his comrades should perish. The situation was one requiring the sternest measures. Greely knew from his own experience the awful temptation under which the starving soldiers had fallen, for the meager rations of the men was the meager ration of the commanding officer.

Greely walked apart from his men into the solitude. He came back and ordered a court-martial, in which the enlisted men participated with the commanding officer. Unanimously a verdict of death was voted for the man who was willing to save himself at the cost of the sacrifice of others.

Four men were detailed for the execution of the culprit. Four guns were loaded, two with blank cartridges and two with ball cartridges. The convicted one was killed, but unless the heavier recoil of the two rifles told the story, the executioners do not know to this day which of them it was who fired the shots that brought death to one who had been their comrade.

Seems Old Complaint.

"Is your wife still complaining?" "Yes—of me."

SOUNDS MADE BY ELEPHANTS

Those Familiar With the Animal Easily Recognize Meaning of Its Different Expressions.

Elephants are said to make use of a great variety of sounds in communicating with each other and in expressing their wants and feelings. Some are uttered by the trunk, some by the throat. The conjunctions in which either means of expression is employed cannot be strictly classified, as fear, pleasure, want and other emotions are sometimes indicated by the trunk, sometimes by the throat. An elephant, rushing upon an assailant, trumpets shrilly with fury. Fear is similarly expressed in a shrill, brassy trumpet, or by a rear from the lungs; pleasure by a continued low squeaking through the trunk or an almost inaudible purring sound from the throat. Want—as a calf calling its mother—is chiefly expressed by the throat. A peculiar sound is made use of by elephants to express dislike or apprehension, and at the same time to intimidate, as when the cause of some alarm has not been clearly ascertained and the animals wish to deter an intruder. It is produced by rapping the end of the trunk smartly on the ground, a current of air hither retained being sharply emitted through the trunk as from a valve, at the moment of impact. The sound made resembles that of a large sheet of tin rapidly doubled.

Another Brand.
He suddenly put his hand in his waistcoat pocket and drew out three broken cigars.
Then he looked at his best girl with a forgiving smile.
"For de King Alfonso," he airily said. "Fifty dollars a hundred. But who cares?"
"Let me see them," said the girl.
She inspected the fragments closely.
"Yes," she quietly announced, "that's the kind papa always buys when he's running for office. I know the odor. Five dollars a thousand. Somebody has fooled you, George."
She was a wise girl and she did not smile.

New Undertaking Rooms

The undersigned has purchased the undertaking business from Wm White, and will in the future conduct same in the Klen Building. There will be a large office and show room, where will be displayed and extensive line of supplies from which selections can be made. Here Is a Story of Real Comfort

Here is a car that appeals to all your senses. Graceful in lines, distinguished in color, long and low hung—it's a pleasure to the eye. Step in and you will marvel at the feeling.
Settle down in the deep cushions at the big eighteen inch steering wheel—stretch out your legs and know what comfort is. Start the motor and you will sense its silent dignity and power. It runs without vibration.
Ride In Careless Ease
Take to the open road and at the first release of the clutch its silent action deceives you for the moment. You wonder if the motor has stopped. Open the throttle and away it springs with eagerness. You ride on and on in careless ease and the farther you go the satisfaction of comfort grows.
This is a car for relaxation—for perfect ease. The wheel base is 120 inches, the wheels and tires 36x4 and the straight line torpedo body swings low between the axles—three inches lower than the ordinary car.
Notice the rake to the steering column. It's adjustable. You can settle down for miles after miles. Your arms are free, your legs not cramped. The wheel is just in the right place to see the road ahead. To steer is but to touch the wheel.
Steer Without Friction
When you hit a stone the wheels don't turn sharply. When you want to turn it guides as without a point of friction. There's no whip to the wheel—no bind—just a pleasing flexibility.
You sink down with pleasure into the eight inch up.
Ten Other Styles, Including Open and Closed Cars of 38 and 50 Horse Power Equipment—Buach duplex ignition. Fine large, black and nickel headlights with gas tank. Black and folding robe rail; foot rest; jack, pump and tire kit. Top, with envelope, $30—wind shield, $30. Demountable Wheel, less tire, with brackets and tools, $30. Gas Operated Self Starter, $50.

Wax Removed.

If candlesticks or the patent holders are unsightly because of wax spots, put them in the oven on a folded newspaper; the heat will melt the wax and most of it will be absorbed by the paper. Wipe them vigorously with a soft cloth or tissue paper as soon as they come from the oven. This treatment removes every vestige of wax. Exchange.

Natural Explanation.

ANOTHER SIDE TO THE CASE

Just a Few Things Elderly Men Overlooked in His Indictment of Lazy Housewives.

Said the elderly man in the street car: "One thing that runs up the cost of living is the laziness of the average woman. She's too lazy to carry bundles home from the stores. Everything she buys, from a spoon of thread up, she asks to have delivered, and the cost of the delivering adds 10 per cent to the cost of every article. Now, my wife is different from the common run. Every week day in the year she goes to the market with a big basket, does her own buying and carries the stuff home herself. That's more than your wife does. I'll bet."

Said the younger man: "Does your wife do her own housework?"

"No, we keep a girl."

"Has your wife got a houseful of children to care for?"

"No, we only have a tomcat."

"Does your wife have to go to market in an overcrowded street car?"

"No, she has her limousine."

"My wife doesn't own a limousine, she has a houseful of children to care for, and she does her own work. Under the circumstances I don't see that my wife isn't just as much of a woman as yours, even if she doesn't get down town very often."

"You needn't get cross about it," retorted the elderly man.

"I'm not cross," said the younger man. "Only I don't like to hear women libeled."

Net Really So Bad. "And I suppose," said Miss Gushington, "that while in London you were at court?" "Only once," admitted Mr. Lushington, blushing. "But I wasn't guilty and I got off with a reprimand." —Newport News.

BEAT UP ZIONISTS

CITIZENS ARMED WITH "BLACK-JACKS" ATTACK 200 ANTI-TOBACCO CRUSADERS.

TRAMPLE MEN AND WOMEN

Score of Deputy Sheriffs Patrol City After the "Faithful" Are Put to Rout—Two Men Are Brutally Beaten.

Chicago, May 1.—Two hundred of Wilbur Glenn Voliva's crusaders at Zion City, singing hymns of praise, were attacked by a "blackjack" band of citizens, led by the town marshal, Monday evening. Both men and women were beaten and trampled on the ground in the rioting.

The attack was the outgrowth of the bitter feeling of citizens styled "independents" against the churchmen's crusade on the "tobacco using employes" of Zion City's new industries. The crusaders had massed near the Cook electric plant to pray for the workers as they left the shops.

Following the riot, in which several of the churchmen were seriously injured, Voliva caused the huge bell of Zion hall to be rung continuously for an hour. That summoned 1,000 of the "faithful" together.

In the meantime angered "independents" stormed in mobs up and down the streets, driving Voliva followers indoors. Mayor W. F. Miller caused Sheriff Elmer Green to rush from Waukegan to the riot-ridden town with armed deputies. Throughout the evening there were threats of further trouble on every side. The deputy sheriffs patrolled the streets with a free display of weapons.

Joseph Bishop, a youthful follower of Voliva, was the most seriously injured. In attempting to defend women about him in the mad rush at the prayer service, he was beaten to the ground by "blackjacks" and "billys" in a dozen hands. It is thought his skull is fractured.

It was just five o'clock, the time for quitting work, when the church workers took their stations opposite the electric plant. The meeting was one of the two to decry the "tobacco curse" which have been held daily, and which have caused the bitter feeling.

Marshal John Hoover, with 40 deputies, had already stationed himself at the factory. He had served the Voliva followers with notice that their meetings incited riots and that he would stop them.

Elder P. M. Royall was there as leader of the prayer service. With three other elders, he was on a platform built on fenced-in church property across the street from the factory. The 200 followers, a large majority of them women, were gathered about the platform.

"Come on, let's clean them out," yelled some one in the crowd, now augmented by the factory employes. Down came the fence as the club wielding mob charged. The strains of the song were drowned by the shrieks of women, the curses of the charging force and the groans of beaten men. Some of the crusaders, clashing bibles in uplifted hands, submitted without a move to the blows from clubs. Others ignored the command of the leader from the platform and fought, feeble as their efforts were, against the armed men.

In a few minutes the assailants had reached the platform and the elders were pulled bodily to the ground. They were beaten mercilessly.

As the Voliva followers retreated they bore unconscious men and fainting women from the scene. In the meantime the marshal and his deputies placed two of the crusaders, I. E. Mills and John Thorpe, under arrest. The eight of young Bishop and John Bryson, a man of seventy years, bleeding and senseless on the ground, led to a truce. The injured were carried off the field and the crusaders, followed by a jeering mob, marched off to report to Voliva.

CLARK VICTOR IN COLORADO

Democratic State Convention Instructs Delegates—Gov. Wilson Is Badly Beaten in Meet.

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 1.—The Colorado state Democratic convention adopted a resolution Monday instructing Colorado's delegation to the national Democratic convention to support Speaker Champ Clark until such time as he no longer should be a candidate or until released by him.

An effort to have Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey named as second choice was defeated on roll call, 676 to 372.

Bury Astar at Rhinebeck. Rhinebeck, N. Y., May 1.—The funeral of Col. John Jacob Astar will be held here at the church which he built. The services will be private. No date will be fixed until after the arrival of the body in New York.

Crushes Skull With a Brick. Bloomington, Ill., May 1.—George Ingles, 30 years old, was killed by a brick thrown at him by a mob of about 100 men who were attacking him in a fight with Edward Wilson, whom he accused of being too attentive to Mrs. Ingles. Wilson struck Ingles with a brick.

DR. PEARSONS IS DEAD

PHILANTHROPIST GAVE $6,000,000 TO SMALL COLLEGES.

Called Schools He Helped "My Children"—Amassed Fortune in Timber.

Chicago, April 29.—Dr. Daniel K. Pearsons, aged philanthropist, died Saturday morning.

The end came after days of uncertainty on the part of the attending physician and after Dr. Pearsons had rallied so much that his friends hoped he would recover and live to be one hundred years old, as he had predicted at the celebration of his last birthday. Dr. Pearsons contracted the cold which developed into pneumonia while celebrating his ninety-second birthday April 14. He told friends then that he was so busy with his "children," as he called the colleges he endowed, that he "did not have time to die."

The funeral arrangements will include services at the Hinsdale Congregational church, where Dr. Pearsons had worshipped for many years.

Dr. Daniel Kimball Pearsons, who came to Chicago in 1860, distributed his fortune of $6,000,000, including even his home, to forty-seven colleges and religious institutions in twenty-four states.

The distribution of his gifts was crowned in August last year with the donation of his home, library and art gallery to the town of Hinsdale.

GRANT BURIED WITH HONORS

Interment at West Point After Services at Governor's Island—Ceremony Was Very Simple.

West Point, N. Y., April 27.—With full military honors and the salute of 13 guns, the remains of Gen. Frederick Dent Grant were lowered into the tomb here Friday. The simple services at the cemetery were preceded by more elaborate services in the chapel at Governor's Island, after which the casket, on an artillery caisson, was taken to South Ferry and thence to the Forty-second street ferry.

The escort, under command of Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, included one regiment of infantry, two troops of cavalry and one battalion of artillery of the Regular army, troops from the New York National Guard, the Veteran Artillery corps and U. S. Grant post, G. A. R.

Ferry boats draped in black transported the body and its escort across the Hudson river to Weehawken, where a special train was waiting to take the members of the Grant family and prominent army and government officials to West Point.

HERO MEDALS GO TO 55

Heroism Rewarded in Substantial Manner by Carnegie Fund Commission.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 29.—When the Carnegie hero fund commission announced its awards here Friday fifty-five acts of heroism received substantial recognition in the form of money, medals, pensions, etc. Of the fifty-five heroes fourteen lost their lives in attempting to rescue others from danger.

Four awards of silver medals were made in connection with an explosion of gas in a coal mine at Panama, Ill., November 11, 1910. Emil F. Grubrick, John J. Wilber, James W. Blaylock and Arthur E. McReaken, left a safe entry after the explosion and went to the aid of miners.

DEBRIS OF CRUISER FOUND

Wreckage of Italian Warship Which Took Part in Dardanelles Bombardment Washed Ashore.

Constantinople, April 29.—Wreckage believed to be that of the Italian cruiser Varese, one of the vessels engaged in the bombardment of the Dardanelles forts last week, was washed ashore at the entrance of the strait. It was reported that Varese was badly damaged in the bombardment.

George Borup in Drowned. Crescent Beach, Conn., April 29.—George Borup of New York, who was with Perry in his successful dash to the north pole, and Samuel Winslip Case of Norwich, Conn., graduate student at Yale, were drowned.

Killed in Motor Accident. Albany, N. Y., April 29.—Hinsdale Pearsons, vice-president and general counsel of the General Electric company at Schenectady, was killed in an automobile accident on the Pittsfield road, a few miles east of here.

NEW CAMPANILE THAT WAS DEDICATED

THE reconstructed Campanile di San Marco in Venice is now completed after ten years' work and was dedicated with impressive ceremonies on April 25. Art lovers from all over the world were present to witness the exercises, among them being J. P. Morgan, who had been specially invited by the committee of the international art exhibition, which had the dedication exercises in hand.

BLOWN FROM TRACK

UNION PACIFIC LOCOMOTIVE AND PASSENGER CARS OVERTURNED BY THE WIND.

One Woman Killed and Many Persons Injured When Cyclone Hits Town of Ponca, Okla., Driving People to Refuge of Storm Caves.

Omaha, Neb., April 27.—Union Pacific passenger train No. 3 was swept from the tracks by a heavy wind storm near the town of North Loup, Neb., and 29 persons were injured, one, James Davis, probably fatally.

The entire train, the engine excepted, was blown from the track and all the cars overturned. A mile of telegraph line was blown down, cutting off direct communication with larger outside cities and preventing a list of the casualties being sent out for several hours after the train was wrecked. Brakeman Levi Hamilton was dangerously cut and bruised.

The train, composed of a combination mail, baggage and express car and two day coaches, was running at a moderate rate when the gale struck it. The engine alone was left on the tracks, and as soon as Engineer O'Brien could realize what had happened he ran his engine to Ord and returned with a car in which the injured were taken to Ord.

Ponca City, Okla., April 27.—Mrs. Mary Crooks was killed, several persons were injured, none fatally, and a score or more buildings were demolished by a tornado which struck this place. Fourteen derricks in the oil field southwest of here were wrecked.

GREAT CEREMONY IN VENICE

Campanile of St. Mark's, Restored After Nine Years of Labor, Is Dedicated.

Venice, April 27.—The city and church officials of Venice, together with thousands of tourists, including prominent men of every nationality, met Thursday to dedicate the new campanile of St. Mark's—a restoration of the old bell tower which, after standing over 900 years, an architectural wonder of the world, suddenly collapsed on July 12, 1902, and fell in a million broken fragments on the historic square.

Fatal Duel Over Woman. Philadelphia, April 29.—John Lar-kins, 21 years old, is dead, and Frank Roddy, 30 years old, is dying as the result of a duel which they fought with shotguns at Martins Village, a suburb, following an argument over a woman.

Gar. Meade's Son a Suicide. Boston, April 29.—Robert Lee Meade, son of the late Brig. Gen. Meade, U. S. M. C., who commanded the United States troops in the fight against the Chinese boxers in 1900, committed suicide at his home here.

PARIS BANDITS DIE

DUBOIS AND BONNOT ARE SHOT TO DEATH AFTER THEIR LAIR IS BLOWN UP.

BATTLE LASTS FIVE HOURS

Ten Thousand Persons Watch Thrilling Conflict Between Leaders of the Automobile Robbers and the Police and Soldiers.

Paris, April 29.—Bonnot, the "demon chauffeur" of the gang of automobile bandits who have been terrorizing Paris and the surrounding district for months, and Dubois, a notorious anarchist confederate, were shot to death Sunday in a most thrilling encounter. A garage at Choisy-le-Roi, six miles south of Paris, in which the bandits had taken refuge, was blown up with dynamite after these two men had fought for five hours a large part of the police force of Paris, a contingent of gendarmes, two companies of republican guards, a company of engineers and artillery under cover of which the police made their attack.

The battle, which was the most sensational ever fought in Paris between police and hunted criminals, was witnessed by a crowd of more than 10,000 persons. The entire city has been thrown into an uproar of excitement by the conflict.

Dubois was instantly killed by the advancing police after he had raised himself from the automobile tonneau in which he was hiding, and fired his last four shots, and Bonnot was mortally wounded as he raised himself to fire from between two mattresses in which he had sought safety from the dynamite blasts.

Two of the detectives participating in the fight were seriously wounded. Bonnot within the past few months had become one of the most daring murderers in the criminal history of France. A score of robberies, in the execution of which several persons were killed, were planned by Bonnot. The bandits always escaped in a taxicab, and it was Bonnot who piloted the machine from the clutches of the law.

BURFORD SAILS FOR MEXICO

Two Torpedo Boat Destroyers Also Start From San Diego Under Sealed Orders.

San Francisco, April 29.—The transport Buford, under orders to sail as a relief ship for Americans in distress on the west coast of Mexico, received supplementary orders Sunday evening and sailed at once. She carries forty enlisted men as a guard.

It is understood that the Buford will put in at San Diego for a convey. Although no official confirmation of this information could be had, it is supported by a dispatch from San Diego stating that two of the torpedo boat destroyers in port there had sailed under sealed orders.

The steamer Newport has arrived here, bringing fifty-seven passengers from ports in western Mexico and details of the brutal murder of an American named White by a band of Mexican outlaws.

San Diego, April 29.—The torpedo boat destroyers Preble and Perry, the largest vessels of the flotilla, slipped out of the harbor and went to sea with sealed orders. That they are bound for the west coast of Mexico is the general belief, although naval officials decline to discuss the probable destination of the destroyers.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 29.—The Kosmos liner Absconla has arrived here, bringing twenty American and English refugees from Mazatlan.

TORNADO DEATHS REACH 60

Towns in Oklahoma and Texas Are Isolated—Hundreds of Persons Are Injured.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 29.—The death list of the tornado that swept a part of Oklahoma and Texas is expected to reach sixty.

Fifty-four deaths have been reported. The injured list will run into the hundreds.

Wire facilities still are demoralized and it is impossible to communicate with several of the stricken towns.

Titanic Bodies Brought Ashore. Halifax, N. S., April 29.—The cable ship Mackay-Bennett arrived today with its burden of sadness—the bodies of 189 victims of the Titanic disaster. All but one of these bodies have been identified, the last list, sent ahead of the vessel by wireless, containing seventeen names.

Three Killed in Fire. Knoxville, Tenn., April 29.—Mrs. Edward Lockett and J. D. Hunt, were burned to death Sunday in a fire that destroyed the Marion apartments. Mrs. John Lister was killed in jumping from a third story window.

Correspondent Ford Better. London, April 29.—I. N. Ford, dean of the American correspondents in London, after a desperate struggle with pneumonia for several days and nights, was reported Friday by the doctors to be out of danger.

Held in $14,000 Robbery. Grand Junction, Colo., April 29.—A. D. Peachout, a Wells-Fargo express messenger, is under arrest charged with being a confederate of Ben Gilbert, a Olohe express messenger, in the theft of $14,000.

Pettit's FOR SORE EYES Salve

Sweethearts are always dear, but wives are far more expensive.

Garfield Tea keeps the liver normal. Drink before retiring.

A kitten is almost as frisky and senseless as a flirt.

Ought to Be Satisfied.

Aunt Boulah's besetting sin was housecleaning. She cleaned in season and out of season, causing the family much worry when sweeping brought on an attack of lumbago or carrying out ashes gave her the grip. One day her patient sister protested.

"Why don't you let the maid do those things?" she asked.

"She's so careless," groaned Aunt Boulah; "I'd rather have the pain than the dust. I'd rather have the pain."

Then the Smart Little Boy jumped into the conversation. "Well, you've got the pain," he remarked; "what are you kicking about?"

JEALOUS.

"My wife is awfully jealous."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; she wouldn't speak to me for three days after I hugged that hunter."

THE OLD PLEA

He "Didn't Know It Was Loaded."

The coffee drinker seldom realizes that coffee contains the drug, caffeine, a severe poison to the heart and nerves, causing many forms of disease, noticeably dyspepsia. "I was a lover of coffee and used it for many years, and did not realize the bad effects I was suffering from its use. (Tea is just as injurious as coffee because it, too, contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)"

"At first I was troubled with indigestion. I did not attribute the trouble to the use of coffee, but thought it arose from other causes. With these attacks I had sick headache, nausea and vomiting. Finally my stomach was in such a condition I could scarcely retain any food."

"I consulted a physician; was told all my troubles came from indigestion, but was not informed what caused the indigestion. I kept on with the coffee, and kept on with the troubles, too, and my case continued to grow worse from year to year until it developed into chronic diarrhea, nausea and severe attacks of vomiting. I could keep nothing on my stomach and became a mere shadow, reduced from 150 to 128 pounds."

"A specialist informed me I had a very severe case of catarrh of the stomach, which had got so bad he could do nothing for me, and I became convinced my days were numbered."

"Then I chanced to see an article setting forth the good qualities of Postum and explaining how coffee injured people so I concluded to give Postum a trial. I soon saw the good effects—my headaches were less frequent, nausea and vomiting only came on at long intervals and I was soon a changed man, feeling much better."

"Then I thought I could stand coffee again, but as soon as I tried it my old troubles returned and I again turned to Postum. Would you believe it, I did this three times before I had sense enough to quit coffee for good and keep on with the Postum. I am now a well man with no more headaches, sick stomach or vomiting, and have already gained back to 147 pounds. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

Look in pigs for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

CHILDHOOD A VARIED PERIOD

From Twenty Years, in the Human Race, It Grades Down to a Few Weeks Among the Birds.

The childhood of animals varies with the total length of life, with the size, and especially with the position, in the life scale. Long lived animals, large animals and highly developed animals usually have a long youth. The educated human being requires 20 years to grow up; the savage about 15; the higher monkeys—the gorilla and the orang—12 to 14 years; the baboon, 8 years, and the small monkeys, about half that time. The less intelligent cat race has a youth of but 4 or 5 years, among the larger kinds. The vegetable-eating animals, mostly of small intelligence, grow up quickly, the buffalo and all the big antelopes and deer having only about 3 years of childhood, and the chamotea somewhat longer, although the giraffe has 5 or 6 years. The elephant, the largest of land animals and one of the most intelligent, is not grown up until 20 to 27 years old. All birds have a short youth, looking after themselves in 3 weeks to 3 months, but becoming grown up in 1 to 4 years. Many reptiles—like the tortoise, crocodile, and alligator—seem to grow all their lives. Certain other creatures have a short adult period—the mayfly, for instance, spending 3 years on the bottom of a pond, and living but a few hours after emerging fully grown from its skin covering. Still more extreme is the American cicada, which gropes 17 years underground, and lives but 2 or 3 weeks after emerging.

STILL HAD A POINT TO MAKE

Domestic Difficulties Being Settled, Woman Insisted Upon One Other Understanding.

A colored couple was taken before the Juvenile court and against the man was placed the charge of neglecting his children. Judge Taylor gave advice as to what should be done to straighten out the family troubles so the couple could continue to live together and support the children. "You are earning $8 a week, and have three children to support on that," said the judge. "It is evident that you must cut your expenses down as low as possible. You are paying for a piano by installments. You will have to stop that, for people in your circumstances can't afford to have a piano. You must leave the house you are living in and move to a smaller one with lower rent. You ought not to pay over $5 or $6 a month for rent." The mother objected to this, saying that she could not live in a respectable neighborhood under such conditions. The judge found that they belonged to different churches, and he advised that the wife join the husband's church. He added that it was proper that the husband hold the purse strings. After many other difficulties had been smoothed over the case was continued two weeks to give the new methods a trial. The couple left, but at the door the woman turned to the judge and said: "Dat will be all right, but Ah must insist dat he pinch his mouf an' stop talking about me."—Indianapolis News.

Point of View.
When the necessity of daily labor is removed and the call of social duty fulfilled, that of moderate and timely amusement claims its place as a want inherent in our own nature. To relieve this want and fill up the mental vacancy games are devised, books are written, music is composed, spectacles and plays are invented and exhibited. And if these plays have a moral and virtuous tendency; if the sentiments expressed are calculated to rouse our love of what is noble, and our contempt of what is base and mean; if they unite hundreds in a sympathetic admiration of virtue, abhorrence of vice or derision of folly—it will remain to be shown how far the spectator is more criminally engaged than if he had passed the evening in the idle gossip of society, in the feverish pursuits of ambition or in the unceasing and insatiable struggle after gain.—Walter Scott.

About 20 beneficiary and social members have been added to Cedar Lake Camp this year, for which credit is due to several members who worked faithfully. Special mention must be made of the royal treatment of Cedar Lake Camp by F. Fowler in Waukegan that day, as he treated the Camp to dinner at Hotel Washburn. A royal good time was reported by all present, in spite of the early (7) hour of their return.

IN DECIDING ON A SILO

It is important that you secure the longest possible service and value for your money. Every dollar you invest should represent a definite, safe purpose that will not require spending additional dollars for repairs and rebuilding. THE IMPERISHABLE SILO is permanent and enduring because it is built of verified clay blocks which can never decay. This silo is storm-proof, moisture-proof and the walls are fire-proof. Better than concrete, which is porous and unsatisfactory in preserving silage. Our silos possess incalculable strength. Patent channel blocks in which steel bars are buried in mortar, concealed from view and not exposed to air and chemical influences, contribute so much strength that the silo could be filled with wheat and stand the test perfectly. THE IMPERISHABLE SILO IS WARRANTED. Buyers cannot lose in such an investment.
